SONSTIGE INFORMATIONEN

132. Stanford University – Austrian Visiting Professorship

1. The Austrian Visiting Professor will be in residence at Stanford for two quarters (6 months) of an academic year hosted by the Freeman Spogli Institute for International Studies (FSI) of Stanford University.

2. Salaries are comparable to faculty at Stanford. For 2008-2009, 2009-2010 and 2010-2011 qualified Austrian scholars from relevant fields may apply. Duties include teaching one course per quarter (related to Austrian interests and wider European issues). Emphasis is on joint research and collaborative projects with Stanford faculty.

3. Qualifications include credentials to teach and conduct research at Associate Professor rank or above at Stanford.

4. Priority will be given to scholars whose research interests overlap with those of the research centers of FSI, the Forum on Contemporary Europe (<http://fce.stanford.edu>), and fields supported by faculty research in any of the seven schools of Stanford University. A focus on modern Austrian literature, history, philosophy, and culture would be welcome, as would especially proposals on EU policies on the environment, political economy, security and conflict, and transformations of welfare and global economies.

5. Applicants are expected to identify Stanford faculty with whom they can collaborate if applicants have collaborated or intend to do so. For additional information on FSI, see <http://fsi.stanford.edu/>.

6. Questions on the application process should be directed to the Research Services and International Relations Office (Forschungsservice und Internationale Beziehungen) of the University of Vienna, (see contact address below).

7. Applications in English should be sent to Universität Wien, Forschungsservice und Internationale Beziehungen, Dr. Karl Lueger-Ring 1, A-1010 Wien, not later than November 15, 2007 and include the following documents:
